

The 4th Washington Jewish Music Festival
Presents
"SHARED ROOTS IN SPIRITUAL SONG" featuring the Debut Collaborative Performance of
The Bountiful Light Choir and
The Heritage Signature Chorale*

Wednesday, April 9 at 8 pm
DCJCC's Aaron and Cecile Goldman Theater
1529 16th Street NW

Hebrew prayers combine with African American music in this debut collaboration. Performing the Jewish liturgical music of celebrated Composer/Singer Norma Brooks, and Negro Spirituals from the African American tradition, renowned Cantors Ramón Tasat and Natasha J. Hirschhorn, and the Bountiful Light Choir join with the highly acclaimed Heritage Signature Chorale and its distinguished Conductor Stanley J. Thurston. After singing selections from their individual repertoires, Conductors Tasat and Thurston will combine the choirs to sing Hebrew, English and Zulu texts from their spiritual traditions.

This program is presented by Windows and Mirrors, a collaboration of the DCJCC and the African American Resource Center at Howard University, celebrating shared traditions between the African American and Jewish communities.

Ticket Prices: DCJCC Members: $18/Non-Members: $22. (Discounted tickets available for students, seniors and groups of 8 or more.) Limited Number of Festival Passes available for $50 for entry into the entire Festival.

Order Tickets: 202-777-3254 or rachels@dcjcc.org.

For Information: 202-777-3254 or rachels@dcjcc.org or www.dcjcc.org.

The Washington Jewish Music Festival is presented by the District of Columbia Jewish Community Center's Morris Cafritz Center for the Arts.

This Festival is funded by generous grants from the Howard & Geraldine Polinger Family Foundation, The Maurice Amado Foundation, and the United Jewish Endowment Fund of the Jewish Federation of Greater Washington.